Healthy Eating Week

It's Health Eating Week his week and the British Nutrition Foundation will be sharing free evidence-based resources to support everyone in having a healthy and sustainable diet!

If of interest, you can take part in Healthy Eating Week by registering via here. They also have some Healthy Eating Week recipes for inspiration.

HOWEVER, we know that us Planiteers enjoy our food and judging the delicious and varied lunches and snacks brought into our studios, we thought, we would ask you to share your recipes. We will then create our very own Planit recipe book.

If you could email Molly and/or Fii by the 16th June.

We look forward to drooling over your tasty food ideas.

What would YOU like to see in your newsletter?

We spend a lot of time planning for the weekly newsletter and pulling it all together, but we want to make sure content is meaningful and interesting, and so that everyone wants to be involved. What do you think works and what doesn't? Let us know! Drop Molly or Fiona an email with your thoughts...

On Friday afternoon the team pulling together the bid for Castlefield Viaduct Phase 2 got to enjoy the site in the sunshine. We explored how nature has reclaimed the untouched section which we will be bidding for next week - Georgie even spotted a wild orchid!

Happy Pride month!

June is here, and with it comes Pride Month—a time to celebrate diversity and promote inclusivity in our workplace.

It's an opportunity for us to celebrate the unique identities and experiences that each of us brings to the table.

Pride Month holds significance as it commemorates the progress made in the fight for equal rights and acceptance for the LGBTQIA+ community. It reminds us of the importance of creating an environment where everyone feels comfortable being their authentic selves.

As a team, we embrace diversity as one of our greatest strengths. By fostering an inclusive workplace, we encourage collaboration, innovation, and empathy. Our commitment to inclusivity extends to every member of our team. This diversity is one of our strengths, through our experiences of the world as individuals we can maximise our thinking about places / environments. This perspective enables us to transfer our collective experience into successful design.

Throughout this month, we encourage you to participate in activities that promote understanding and support for all individuals. This could be watching a video, engage in conversations with foster empathy and respect, and learn about different experiences. By doing so, we contribute to a culture of acceptance and ensure that everyone feels valued and respected.

Most importantly, the spirit of Pride Month isn't limited to just one month! It's about recognizing and embracing diversity all year round. Together, we can create an environment where everyone feels proud of who they are and can bring their whole selves to work.

Did you know?

There are ever increasing contributions to the graphic representation of pride and inclusion for the LGBTQIA+ community. Here are a few examples of flags which have become representative of people since the original flag was adopted in 1978. There is even Microsoft's open-source design which incorporates 40 communities and creates a psychedelic experience!
